

Looking for a “fishing hole” with a little peace and quiet or somewhere to spend “quality time” with family and loved ones? Try one of the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency (TWRA) Family Fishing Lakes for solitude and relaxation and the chance to catch bass, sunfish, crappie, and catfish.

The 18 lakes managed by TWRA are open year-round for fishing and outdoor recreation. These lakes are designed and regulated for family fishing; therefore, alcoholic beverages, houseboats, sailboats, inboard motors, and, except for the Recreational Zone at Gibson County Lake, water skiing, personal watercraft, and swimming are prohibited.

Most lakes have wheelchair-accessible fishing piers, bank fishing, boat rentals, launching ramps, and picnic areas. Some of the lakes are operated under concessionaire agreements and offer conveniences such as bait, tackle, and snacks.

These lakes provide quality fishing opportunities at minimal cost, in a clean, safe, and wholesome environment that is ideal for family fishing fun. If the family wants to get away from it all, consider one of these 18 lakes to pursue your thoughts and relinquish your worries to the tug of bluegill, bass, or catfish. You might find something you had lost while enjoying an activity that is basic, simple, and just plain fun and relaxing.

GENERAL INFORMATION/ REGULATIONS

- A daily permit, in addition to a regular fishing license, is required to fish most of these lakes. An annual permit may also be purchased and is valid at all 18 lakes. Both of these permits are available at most of the individual lakes. Permit fees are used to offset the cost of fertilizer, stocked fish, and maintenance.
- Boats may be rented each day for a small fee at most lakes, which includes cushions and paddles. Personal fishing boats may be launched but may not exceed the no wake speed. Use of boat motors (except trolling motors) is prohibited on some lakes. Personal boats may not be left overnight.
- Fishing is permitted seven days a week from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset (except Garrett Lake, open 24 hours a day). Only rods and reels, poles, and hand-held lines and jugs may be used (except on Gibson County Lake where no jugging is allowed). Commercial gear, trotlines, limblines, and castnets are prohibited.
- Size and creel limits vary by lake. Look for posted regulations at the lake; consult the current Tennessee Fishing Guide, available where fishing licenses are sold; or call the lake. For additional information, call (615) 781-6575 or visit www.tnwildlife.org.

Residents:

- Anglers under the age of 13 or holders of a Lifetime Sportsman license or an Annual Sportsman license do not need a license or a lake permit.
- Anglers born before March 1, 1926 do not need a license or lake permit.
- Anglers who are 65 and older need only a Permanent Senior Citizen license (Type 166) and do not need a lake permit.
- Anglers ages 16 through 64 must have a Tennessee fishing license and an annual or daily lake permit.
- Anglers ages 13 through 15 need only a Jr. Hunt, Fish and Trap license.

Nonresidents:

- Anglers age 16 and over must have a Tennessee nonresident fishing license and a daily lake permit.
- Anglers ages 13 through 15 need only a Tennessee nonresident fishing license.

FISHING

Fish species found at all lakes include largemouth bass, bluegill, and catfish, with redear sunfish (shellcracker) and crappie present in most lakes. Bass fishing is good year-round, with the biggest usually caught from February through April when they are near the bank. Bluegill and redear can be caught by bank and boat anglers from late spring through summer. Catfish are caught year-round, but the summer months are best. Crappie fishing is best from early to late spring.

SPECIES

Largemouth Bass: In TWRA fishing lakes, largemouth bass normally weigh one to two pounds, but on occasion exceed seven pounds. Bass can be found near the banks in the spring and fall but move to deeper, cooler water during the summer. Bass feed on a variety of food, especially small fish. Baits such as minnows, worms, and a wide assortment of artificial lures are effective year-round.

Bluegill: Bluegill can be found in shallow areas near the bank and are easily caught by bank anglers. They commonly grow to six to eight inches in TWRA lakes, and baits such as crickets or worms (on size 6 to 10 hooks) and small artificial lures are effective.

Redear Sunfish: Commonly known as "shellcracker," redear sunfish are similar in size, or slightly larger, than bluegill. They are readily caught while spawning in May through June. Bait, tackle, and techniques are similar to those used for bluegill.

Catfish: Channel and/or blue catfish are regularly stocked into TWRA fishing lakes and commonly grow to two to three pounds. Catfish prefer deeper water than bluegill and eat almost anything. Baits with strong smell or flavor such as liver, night crawlers, cheese, and blood baits (fished near the bottom) are usually most effective. Since catfish are strong fighters and will grow as large as 20 pounds, strong tackle is recommended.

Channel Catfish

Blue Catfish

Crappie: White and black crappie can be found in most TWRA fishing lakes. Crappie fishing is usually best from March through May when they are spawning in shallow (two to four feet) water near protective cover.

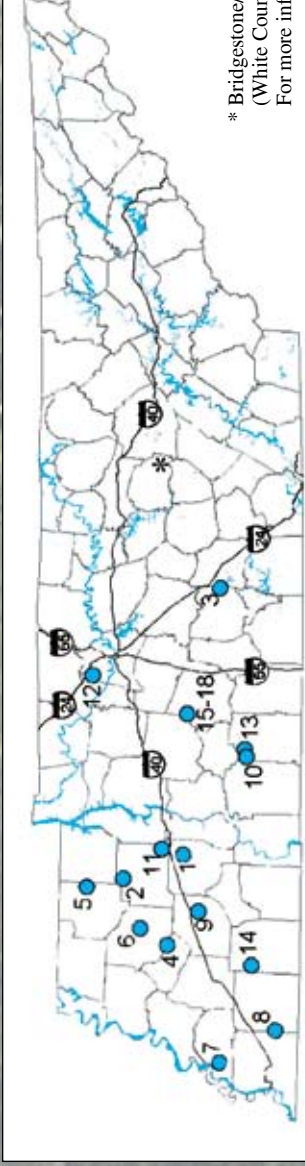

Black Crappie

Crappie feed on a variety of insects and small fish, so small minnows or jigs are recommended baits.

White Crappie
